

Speaker Information Sheet

Drew Rozell, Ph.D.

QuantumPerformanceCoaching.com

In private coaching practice in New York for over a decade, Drew has taken his background in psychology and passion for personal development and success, and has created coaching and training sessions that promote lasting change. His unique understanding of what affects our behaviors and the motivating factors behind our decisions in our life and work results in a down-to-earth and inspiring style of training and coaching.

Drew holds a Doctorate in Social Psychology from the Syracuse University in New York, is a Graduate of Coach University, the leading Professional Coaching School, and is a licensed distributor of TTI, Inc. DISC products. He is trained researcher and former University professor, and is extensively trained in teaching psychological based material to beginners and experts alike.

His speaking experience includes: speaking to entrepreneurial groups, large corporations, training conferences, and intimate groups such as small business staff meetings and manager's meetings. He has led, taught, and created programs that are known for their practical application, interactive dynamics and ease of understanding.

Drew's speaking style is warm, engaging and quietly confident. He is willing to share his experiences from his own personal and professional life with clients, in an practical and approachable way. He is extensively trained in creating change and brings his expertise to real-life business situations.

In addition to training, consulting and coaching, Drew is currently in private coaching practice, and is well recognized as one of the top coaches in his field. He works one-on-one with successful professionals and has created an online community on the Law of Attraction that is host to over a thousand individuals. He has been professionally coaching and training others to succeed in life and business since 1996.

Drew is currently conducting a variety of interactive group training sessions and innovative communication seminars for large and small companies looking to be on the cutting edge of team building, human resource issues and training for bottom line results.

My intention in conducting training sessions is to see participants get insight, answers and focused direction in applying the Practical Attraction tools into their business communications while the host site feels a sense of team building being built. This results in a more enjoyable, effective and less stressful work environment for all.

Types of Trainings Available

- Tele-Conference Training
- In-Person Training

What is Practical Attraction about?

- Set and achieve communication goals
- Creating change gently and effectively
- Take consistent action
- Expert attention for your questions
- Step-by-step guidance
- Achieve more than by yourself

Contact Drew Rozell, Ph.D. today to discuss booking your next event.

phone: 518-642-3111
mail: Drew@DrewRozell.com
web: www.QuantumPerformanceCoaching.com